

What an interesting year it's been. And what an exciting year 2009 is going to be! We've been finalizing our 2009 Product Release Roadmap and we'd like to share some highlights with you below.

Before we do that however we'd like to tell you about the version of Spread COM that we just released. COM you ask? Isn't that technology dead as a doornail? Well our Spread COM developers said "NO WAY!" We listened and on November 14th we delivered Spread 8. And there is a source code option available too! You can read the Spread 8 section below to get all of the details.

FarPoint Spread 8 (COM) and Source Code Released

Use Spread 8 to give your users the latest spreadsheet look and feel for your COM and DLL applications. The most robust and powerful version of Spread COM is here; be one of the first to check it out! And we're about the only major vendor still continuing support for COM products so you can feel confident in your purchase.

FarPoint 2009 Product Roadmap:

- Spread 8 COM

Spread 8 COM will see an option to import and export Excel 2007 files in the first quarter. This will be free for all existing developer licensees.

- Spread for Windows Forms 5

Spread for Windows Forms will get a boost to version 5 and what a boost it will be. As well as enhancements to the current feature set you'll see a full-featured Charting component and a Pivot Table component as well. We can't wait to show them to you. Until then, here's a screen shot to whet your appetite.

- Spread for ASP.NET 5

Spread for ASP.NET will also get a boost to version 5. It too will have the Charting component added to its feature set and you'll see enhanced performance, improved support for browsers and additions to the Dynamic Data support that's about to be included in the current release.

- FarPoint Chart

You will see our new Chart component with 27 chart types coming out that will tightly integrate with Spread for Windows Forms, Spread for ASP.NET, Spread for Silverlight and Spread for WPF.

- Input for ASP.NET

Input for ASP.Net will release after the first of the year. This is a product we've licensed from our Japanese partner, GrapeCity. It and its Windows Forms counterpart are the two of the three best selling components in Japan. We're happy to report that Spread is the other one. These are some very nice web components and we encourage you to give them a try.

We have also been hard at work on a set of input components for Silverlight. We plan to get those into beta after the first of the year.

- Spread for Silverlight and WPF

What's that you say? Where's Spread for Silverlight and Spread for WPF? It's part of the 2009 roadmap as well. Keep an eye out for the beta announcement in these newsletters and on the web site as well.

- More...

We have several more major product announcements that will be made public soon!

We invite you to submit your comments and questions to us at fpSales@FarPointSpread.com
